

Luigi Curini is Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Milan. His research centers on the spatial theory of voting, party competition and social media analysis. His articles have appeared, amongst others, in European Journal of Political Research, The Journal of Politics, British Journal of Political Science, West European Politics, Electoral Studies and Comparative Political Studies. He is also the author of several books.