Biographical Notes

Marianna Capasso is a Researcher specialising in Ethics of Technology and Political Philosophy, with a special focus on human freedom and responsibility with AI, bias and discrimination in AI, and AI and the future of work. On these topics, she has published extensively in leading journals such as Philosophy & Technology; Minds & Machines; AI & Society; among others. Her publications include: "Synthetic Data as Meaningful Data. On Responsibility in Data Ecosystems" (in Big Data & Society, 2025), "On the Right to Work in the Age of Artificial Intelligence" (et al., in Business and Human Rights Journal, 2024), and "Responsible Social Robotics and the Dilemma of Control" (in International Journal of Social Robotics, 2023). Her academic background includes postdoctoral positions at Utrecht University, Erasmus University Rotterdam, and Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies in Pisa. At Sant'Anna, she obtained her PhD cum laude in Human Rights and Global Politics. Marianna holds a MA in Philosophy from the University of Pisa and a Honours Diploma in Philosophy from the Scuola Normale Superiore. In recognition of her contributions to the field, she was recently named a Rising Star in AI Ethics for 2025 by Women in AI Ethics.

Cecilia Castellani is a PhD student in Political Science at the University of Pisa, Department of Political Science. Under the supervision of prof. Eugenio Pizzimenti, her research focuses on sustainable development, institutions, governance, inner areas and public policies. She holds a Master's degree in "Scienze dell'Educazione degli Adulti e della Formazione Continua" (SEAFC LM57) from Roma Tre University, supervised by prof. Fabrizio Dafano with co-supervision by prof. Vincenzo Piccione, and a First-degree

Master in Critical Criminology and Social Security from the University of Padua. She also earned a Bachelor's degree in Criminology from University College Cork, Ireland, under the supervision of prof. James Windle. Her work has explored the intersections of sustainability and governance in regional development, with a particular interest in policy strategies. Her latest pubblications are: "La governance della Sostenibilità. Sfide e prospettive globali" (in J. Bernardini, C. Castellani, T. Cerutti, D. Kerma, O*rizzonti democratici. Crisi della rappresentanza e nuove forme di partecipazione*, Carocci, 2025) and "Governance e territori fragili. Italia e Spagna tra strategie integrate e sostenibilità", in I*nternational Conference on Virtual City and Territory*, Atti del Congresso (forthcoming).

Giacomo Franzoso is a PhD student in Legal Sciences, specifically in Sociology of Law, deviance and social change, at the Department of Law, Political and International Studies of the University of Parma. His research —under the supervision of prof. Chiara Scivoletto—in the field of Restorative Justice focuses on the RJ landscape in the Italian context in the light of the recently introduced "organic discipline" (contained in d.lgs. n. 150/2022) with a normative, socio-legal and qualitative empirical approach. He holds a Master's degree in Law from the University of Trento, supervised by prof. Andrea di Nicola, and a First-degree Master in Critical Criminology and Social Security from the University of Padua. His literary work has reflected his research interests, revolving around Restorative Justice on the one hand, and prison studies on the other, exploring the relationship between them. He has also touched upon the victimological subject and compensation for crime victims. His latest publications are: L*a sfida della giustizia riparativa*: normativa, questioni aperte e prospettive (Ledizioni, 2025) and "Il dilemma dell'istituzionalizzazione della giustizia riparativa nel contesto italiano" (A*utonomie locali e servizi sociali*, 2025).

Matteo Galletti is Associate Professor of Moral Philosophy and Bioethics at the University of Florence. His most recent publications include: F*ilosofia dell'intelligenza artificiale*: sfide etiche e teoriche (with Silvano Zipoli Caiani, il Mulino, 2024); C*ontro il paternalismo*. E*tica della salute individuale e collettiva* (Clinamen, 2024); L*a pillola per diventare buoni*. E*tica e potenziamento morale* (Fandango, 2022); R*eciprocamente responsabili*: la responsabilità morale tra naturalismo e normativismo (ETS, 2018).

Beatrice Magni is Associate Professor of Political Philosophy at the Department of Social and Political Sciences at the Faculty of Political, Economic and Social Sciences (SPES), University of Milan, where she teaches Political Philosophy, Public Ethics, and Bioethics. She is also Co-Director of Bdl - Biblioteca della libertà at the Luigi Einaudi Research Center in Turin. Her research focuses on normative political theory, with particular interest in the following areas: theories, problems, and practices of pluralism; theories of justice; theories of conflict; moral and political compromise; gender studies; public ethics and just societies; bioethics. Her most recent publication is Filosofia politica, in the Collana di Filosofia series, CRS Editions, 2025.

Davide Saracino is a political theorist whose research focuses on political legitimacy and panarchism. He received his PhD from the University of Milan in 2025. He is the author of Voluntarism and Self-Interest: Psychological Foundations and Panarchist Visions in Libertarian Anarchism (Routledge, 2026).

Sarah Songhorian is an Associate Professor in Moral Philosophy at the Faculty of Philosophy of Vita-Salute San Raffaele University and Deputy Head of Study Programme, MA Philosophy, Politics and Public Affairs (PPPA), University of Milan and Vita-Salute San Raffaele University. She is the vice-president of SINe (Società Italiana di Neuroetica e Filosofia delle neuroscienze) and the secretary of SIFM (Società Italiana di Filosofia Morale).

Silvano Zipoli Caiani is Associate Professor of Theoretical Philosophy at the University of Florence. His publications include: Corporeità e cognizione. La filosofia della mente incorporata (Le Monnier, 2026); Vedere e Agire. Come occhio e cervello costruiscono il mondo (with Gabriele Ferretti, il Mulino, 2019); with Matteo Galletti ha curato Filosofia dell'intelligenza artificiale: sfide etiche e teoriche (il Mulino, 2024).