

Elia A.G. Arfini is Research Fellow in the Department of Social and Political Sciences at the University of Milan. His research focuses on gender studies and queer theories, and on consumer cultures in the food sector. His work has been published in various national and international journals, including the European Journal of Cultural Studies, Journal of Consumer Culture, Journal of Gender Studies, and Rassegna Italiana di Sociologia. He is the author of Che cos'è l'intersezionalità (Carocci, 2024).

Jaroslav Franc, Th.D., Professor and head of the Department of Communication at the Palacký University in Olomouc, Czech Republic. His research focuses on the field of religious studies and theology in general and on the field of communication of cultures and religions, media ethics, crisis communication, and digital religion in particular. He has coordinated several international projects and is currently engaged in research on the role of religion in polarizing discourse and public communication.

Agata Lavorio has a PhD in Political Studies and is Postdoctoral Research fellow at the Department of International, Legal, Historical and Political Studies at the University of Milan. Her main research interests include geopolitics, strategic studies, and national security, with a focus on climate security. In 2021-2022 she took part in the national research project "Reacting to Mass Violence: Acknowledgment, Denial, Narrative, Redress" at the University of Milan.

Veronika Müllerová, Ph.D., currently a researcher and teacher at the Cyril and Methodius Theological Faculty of Palacký University in Olomouc. She has many years of experience in the audiovisual media environment. Her research interests focus on the topics of the transformation of communication in the age of social networks and crisis communication.

Carlo Nardella is Associate Professor of Sociology in the Department of Social and Political Sciences at the University of Milan. He studies issues of cultural change, with particular attention to the interrelationships between religion and marketing. He has published the first major study on religion and advertising in Italy and co-authored a book on the controversies sparked by the appropriation of religious symbols outside the religious domain. His edited book on the renewed public presence of religions in Western society, Religioni dappertutto, was published by Carocci in 2024.

Eleonora Severini is Postdoctoral Fellow in Moral Philosophy at the Department of Humanities of the University of Pavia. She received her Ph.D. in Philosophy and History of Philosophy from Sapienza University of Rome in 2015. She has held visiting positions at Columbia University (2013) and at Tilburg Center for Logic, Ethics, and Philosophy of Science (2015). She has been Humboldt Postdoctoral Researcher at the Department of Philosophy of the University of Duisburg-Essen (2019-2021). She specializes in ethics and epistemology, and has written on such topics as evolutionary ethics, moral progress, moral understanding, moral expertise and feminist epistemology. Recent publications have appeared in Rivista di filosofia, Ethical Theory and Moral Practice, Iride, History and Philosophy of the Life Sciences, Philosophia. She is the author of Etica ed evoluzionismo (Carocci, 2020).

Giuseppe Tateo is postdoctoral fellow at the University of Milan, where he collaborates at the research project "Religion in Public: Forms and Dynamics of Religious Publicization in Italy". After earning his PhD from the Max Planck Institute for Social Anthropology, he taught at Charles University (Prague) and at Riga Stradins University and was a post-doctoral researcher in Trento, Bucharest, Prague and Leipzig. His current research interests focus on the link between political authority and religious architecture in post-socialist Europe with a specific focus on Romania. Among his publications, the monograph Under the Sign of the Cross: The People's Salvation Cathedral and the Church-Building Industry in Postsocialist Romania (Berghahn Books, 2020) and "The Orthodox Charismatic Gift" (The Cambridge Journal of Anthropology, 2022).

