

Enrico Biale is Research Fellow at the University of Piemonte Orientale. His main research interests are in the normative theory of democracy and in the theory of justice in labour market. Among his most recent publications: Interessi democratici e ragioni partigiane. Una concezione politica della democrazia, Bologna, il Mulino, 2018; Democracy and Diversity, with Anna Elisabetta Galeotti e Federica Liveriero (eds), London, Routledge, 2018; “A fluid demos for a hypermigration polity”, in Res Publica, 2017; “A multidimensional account of democratic legitimation: How to make robust decision in a non-idealized deliberative context” (with Federica Liveriero), in Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy, 2017.