

Catherine Nolan received her PhD in philosophy from the State University of New York, and she currently teaches at the University of Dallas' Rome Campus in Marino (RM) Italy. Her research is in metaphysics and ethics, particularly where ancient and medieval authors can be used to shed light on contemporary problems.