

Antonella Besussi teaches Political Philosophy at the University of Milan. Her research interests concern normative political theory and political philosophy with particular reference to methodological and theoretical questions