

Davide Saracino is a PhD candidate in Political Theory at the University of Milan. His research interests include theories of political legitimacy and political authority, methodological issues in political theory, and panarchism. His PhD project is titled Legitimacy for Hogs: The Selfish Case for Express Consent Theory. His latest publication is “The Birth of Panarchism: Voluntary Non-Territorial States in the Works of Gustave De Molinari and Paul Émile De Puydt” (European Journal of Political Theory, 2025).